

Problems with Coyotes in Your Community?

Are you seeing coyotes in your backyard? Worried about your children's safety? Coyotes are becoming an increasing common sight in the suburban landscape, and fears may abound. This program will give you much insight about coyotes, explain effective and humane strategies which can change problematic behaviors, and give you the peace of mind you need.

This special public presentation will be held on Tuesday September 20th - 6:30 – 7:45 pm at the Ferguson Library in Stamford – Harry Bennett Branch on 115 Vine Road.

Speaker: Laura Simon is a Wildlife Ecologist for the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) who specializes in helping communities resolve urban wildlife issues. She ran a public assistance wildlife hotline for 18 years. Her work with wildlife has been featured on the Ellen DeGeneres show, the New York Times, NPR and other national media.
